I think it confirms that this is a subject of great intrigue, some controversy, some shame, some pride, and is a story that people will want to hear.
This was about taking action. In this world now? So rare. Talk talk, cut throat-talk. We elect a president then watch him get torn asunder verbally in a disgusting display of self-hatred and disrespect. We crash our financial system, cost thousands of jobs and destroy our way of life and no-one goes to jail.
We let it all happen, like a frog boiling in the water.
This story is about not doing that, not sitting by watching the evil that would destroy us gather its strength.
Very compelling for me.
